Jurors

Faith Hieblinger

Faith Hieblinger has participated in exhibitions as curator, juror and artist throughout Southwestern Ontario and beyond. She spent close to three decades as Executive Director/Curator of the nationally recognized Homer Watson House and Gallery. She has also curated shows with the Etobicoke Art Gallery and Art Gallery of Mississauga and is affiliated with City of Kitchener as guest curator in the Berlin Tower ARTSPACE. Hieblinger has enjoyed working with Studio Art Quilt Associates international or SAQA, curating an exhibit that is currently touring across Canada. Her own artwork is exhibited with the Art District Gallery of Waterloo Region. Hieblinger is an award winner for excellence in heritage arts and two-time nominee for the Kitchener Waterloo Arts Award. She studied Business at Wilfred Laurier University and has an honours fine art studio degree from University of Waterloo.

Scott McNichol

Scott McNichol is a successful working artist for the past 32 years in a variety of mediums such drawing, painting, photography, and sculpture. He has exhibited his works in solo and group shows from Toronto to Montreal and Buffalo, NY, with many works in both private and public collections. As a graduate of Fine Arts and Philosophy from the University of Guelph and Print Journalism from Conestoga College, McNichol has been actively curating, jurying and above all teaching visual arts. He has designed and taught children's and adult art programs through Kitchener-Waterloo and Cambridge Art Galleries, as well as galleries in Stratford, Guelph, Niagara-on-the-Lake and Toronto.

For 28 years, McNichol was Associate Artist at Homer Watson House and Gallery and taught workshops and programs through Waterloo and Wellington school boards. In 2017, Scott received the Canada 150 Award of Excellence for youth arts engagement from the Government of Canada.

Currently, Scott is head of the Art Department at Scholars' Hall Private School, which is also home to the McNichol School of Art.
